What's New in the GTG Zapkit?

GTG ZAPKIT is a drum sampling plugin that allows you to sample any sound from any audio engine. You can create custom sounds on the fly and then use those sounds as templates for future sounds. You can create up to 16 loops, which can be placed on separate tracks. Each loop can have its own tempo and pitch, as well as have sounds re-mapped to different channels. Use the key of the loop to control the pitch. New Features: 16 Loops per track. Different Channels per Drum. Tempo and Pitch are controlled by the key of the loop. Tabs are added so you can easily place loops onto separate tracks. User Interface Overview There are 7 tabs in the UI. Icons on the left side of the UI enable you to select the drumset you wish to use. These drum sets are chosen from a list of different drum kits. The tabs in the UI allow you to navigate through the UI. The UI is split into two sections; the left portion is used for audio and the right portion is used for presets. To the far right of the UI are the tabs. These tabs are used to control the position of the loops on a drum set, and control the properties of the loops. The right side of the UI is used for controls that allow you to control the preset loops that are already loaded. Once you have selected the drum set you wish to use, you can use the left side of the UI to choose the drum you wish to use for that loop. Once you have chosen a drum, you can choose the re-map channels for the drum. It is highly recommended to use the same drumset for every loop. You can also change the pitch for each loop. The pitch can be adjusted in cents or semitones. A loop is a template that you can use to create your own sounds. You can add as many loops as you want on a drum set. Each loop has a key, which is used to control the pitch for that loop. You can use the key to adjust the pitch up or down. If a loop has a key, that is the same key as the key for the selected drum. The key of the loop can be changed by choosing a different drumset. The drum set that you choose will be the default drum set for the loop. Once you have created a loop, you can save it as a preset. You can save your loops as presets so that they can be used in different sequences. You can delete a preset by clicking the "X" in the upper right hand corner. You can move a preset up or down in the list of presets by clicking the up or down arrow. Each preset is saved as a.zip file. The saved presets are listed in the top
