This is a fantasy themed tower defense where you will have to fight against monsters from around the world. You control an army of different units, each one with their own attack, ability and behavior. Your goal is to destroy all the enemy waves using the different magical spells and abilities of your units. The game is split into levels, each one including a battle with a single wave of enemies. The castle is your main focus. You need to defend it, upgrade it and gather resources from the environment so you can improve your units and prepare for the next wave. Because of the variety of units and their abilities, you have to plan well your strategy. The game mixes the elements of war and economics. The economy and progress of the game are driven by resources, which you can collect either by farming, or buying them from the store. Builders will be your focus after you reach level 5. They will enable you to build new units of your choice and collect resources from the map. For those who do not know the basics of the type of game I'm introducing you, here are some links to get you started: - Steam Game Store - Steam Webpage: - iTunes : - Android App Store: - Google Play Page: - Facebook : - Twitter : This game is a fantasy themed tower defense with automatically fighting tower-like units and a significant economics component. The units fight automatically, use their numerous abilities and decide which monster to attack. They are smart, you can rely on them. The success of the defense depends on the army's formation and composition. If done right, an army would be able to counter any kind of enemy attack. The player can also help their army fight the toughest waves by casting spells, which can damage and weaken the enemy, or buff and heal the allied units. Spells can be purchased between the levels, as well as artifacts, that provide combat and economical bonuses. Enemies are not simply
